

TIKO PAKSA Fall-Winter 21 fully encompasses current extreme situation which we find ourselves in. Accelerated and confused fashion system which drove the creation of this collection.

Classic menswear suit that you can see in many variations. You can see them in a midi dress or like a quilted outerwear.

Also, you can see a football referee with a quilted skirt, as sportswear elements are one of the main keys of the collection. They are not really playing football, but they are ready for any occasion.

The Fall-Winter 21 collection is portrayed in a pastel gradient palette of gray, beige, burgundy, black and azure blue.

There are pieces with strong angles and sharp tailoring. Lycra V-neck stripped tops are combined in different colors, suits in wool and viscose, asymmetrical skirts and dresses in georgette and wool.
